Non-Stop Offensive Unleashed at Continent

Allied Bombers Rain Heavy Blows on Europe

LONDON, May 14.—(BUP)—British and American tonight announced record attacks by their bombing fleets in a history-making offensive against Europe—the delivery by the Royal and Royal Canadian Air Forces of the biggest bomb tonnage ever carried in a single night and the heaviest concentration of explosives ever dropped by American planes on a single target.

LONDON, May 14.—American bombers were reported in Berlin broadcasts to be striking at North Germany again today in the greatest United Nations air offensive of the war against key war centres of Germany, Italy, the occupied countries and the invasion islands of the Mediterranean.

Berlin, Warsaw, Naples, the great Ruhr Valley, Sardinia, Sicily, north France and Bohemia, the Nazi-held arsenal, were smashed from three sides in an unprecedented series of co-ordinated blows by the Royal, the Royal Canadian, the United States and the Red air forces last night. At noon today, the United States said American heavy bombers were again engaged by German fighters over the North German coast area.

The "very heavy" announced that the attack on the heart of the Ruhr was "very heavy" with more than 2,000 bombs dropped, that the area alone. Reconnaissance planes continued on Page 2, Col. 6

The ack-ack kept up, but so did the stuff down low, and we knew that they must be aiming at our boats. A speaking tube connected Hughes-Hallett with General Roberts' cabin. They talked. Hughes-Hallett gave orders calmly, unburied. A couple of destroyers, unseen by us, saw the dots and dashes bled from our bridge. They would go and investigate. This was a disheartening development. There had been no bombing during the night of the stretch between Varengeville and Berneval. A real concentrated bombing by three or four hundred bombers an hour before the landing might have knocked any big guns out and considerably weakened the German defences, but the element of surprise would then have been completely forfeited. And now some unknown element had entered the picture; that unforeseen, incalculable accident had happened, and we did not know what we were doing.

Churchill Says Many Offensives Are Being Planned

Reveals Wide Scope Of Talks with F.D.R.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today that he and President Roosevelt and their military experts are planning many future campaigns against the Axis in different parts of the world.

"It is no good only having one march ahead laid out," he said in an address to his homeland which also was broadcast in the United States.

"March after march must be planned as far as human eye can design."

"Design and forethought must be our guides and heralds. We owe it to the fighting troops. We owe it to the vast communities we are leading out of the dark places; we owe it to heroic Russia, to long-tormented China; we owe it to the captive and enslaved nations who beckon us to through their prison bars."

Pointing out that strong armies are assembled in Britain and that the island is the assembly base for the United States armies of liberation coming across the broad Atlantic, Churchill added:

PLAN AHEAD OF ARMIES

"But this is not the end. We must prepare for the time which is approaching and will surely come when the best of these armies will have advanced across the seas into the land of the enemy." Churchill said.

Churchill said the planning now was being done "well ahead of the armies who are moving swiftly forward."

He seemed to confirm the general belief here that Mr. Roosevelt and Churchill now are formulating strategy for operations that will follow the initial invasion of Europe. They are believed to be paying particular attention to campaigns to get at the Japanese homeland.

Earlier today he sent a message to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek assuring the Chinese leader that "the day will come" when the "armies of the United Nations" will be "well ahead of the armies who are moving swiftly forward."

WASHINGTON, May 14.—(AP)—The drive to force the Japanese off of Atoll in the western Aleutians is going very satisfactorily, Navy Secretary Frank Knox said today.

WASHINGTON, May 14.—The United States has begun its long-awaited drive to oust the Japanese from the Aleutians and clear the northern route to Tokyo.

This was revealed by the U.S. Navy today in a brief communique which said only that United States forces have landed on Atoll, westernmost of the Aleutians, and are locked in battle with the Japanese there.

A Tokyo broadcast broadcast by the Berlin radio, said that a bombardment by naval artillery and American planes preceded the landing by U.S. troops. It said the Americans approached the islands under cover of a dense fog.

In another communique, the navy revealed two raids were made on Kiska, east of Atoll, by heavy bombers and homecoming Curtiss warplanes. The raids were made yesterday, two days after the Atoll landings. They brought the number of air attacks on Kiska since March 1 to 22.

The plan undoubtedly is to take Atoll first and then place American forces between the Japanese stronghold at Kiska and the Aleutians and Japan proper.

Such a strategy would mean the Americans on Atoll to be off to Continued on Page 2, Col. 8

Debate Concluded Mutual Assistance Bill Ready For Final Reading As House Gives Approval

OTTAWA, May 14.—(CP)—The House of Commons in committee last night approved the $1,000,000 mutual aid bill after consideration of the measure clause by clause. Second reading has been given the measure and third reading will be given at the next sitting.

Assisting Loan

Angus MacInnis (C.F., Vancouver East) said the $1,000,000 was spoken of as a gift to the United Nations but he had heard a gift discussed at such length.

New Democracy Leader Blackmore said he approved the bill's principle of mutual aid which might be carried on beyond the war to remove the danger of adverse trade balances throughout the world.

SEES ADVANTAGES

"With a mutual aid system a 'supranational' government poking its nose into the affairs of nations would not be needed. No sovereignty should be yielded to a 'supranational' gang."

P. D. Shaw (N.D., Red Deer) told the House that need should be the only test applied to Canada's apportionment of surplus war supplies among the United Nations.

Mr. Shaw urged that efforts be made to bring to its maximum the production of foodstuffs in Canada, not only to feed the United Nations, but to ensure food would be available for those who would be liberated from conquered countries when the war is over.

He said he viewed "with alarm" the present food production situation apart from the fact there was no food surplus in Canada.

OBJECTS TO CLAUSE

Mr. Shaw made an amendment to strike out provision in the act permitting transfer of goods to be made in exchange of goods of a kind. If the bill was passed as it stood, he said, there would be nothing in it that suggested exchange in payment in kind.

Mr. Shaw (Battle River) seconded the amendment but it was immediately defeated on a call of ayes and nays.

J. G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Can., Lake Centre), said Canada did not have representation on the combined food board, and should seek such a place.

ILLEY EXPLAINS

Mr. Illey explained that under the bill section being discussed, agreement might be required for supplies provided under the bill. There was no power under the bill to touch the territory of Canada, and therefore a reciprocal trade agreement would not be made. He had never said this could be done.

It was a "misquotation" of his language to say he had claimed Canada should stipulate for trade agreements under the mutual aid bill, he wanted parliament to know what the government is doing, he said. Mr. Diefenbaker.

He said that he had a most interesting meeting with 120 representative farmers at Calgary on Thursday evening when party prices, wheat surplus problem, farm debt legislation and many other matters pertaining to the welfare of the farmers were discussed. It is understood that a similar meeting is planned for him here.

The Progressive Conservative chief, urged that all Canadians give their unsparing support to Canada's Fourth Victory Loan.

Canadian Army Overseas Now 190,000 Strong

OTTAWA, May 14.—(CP)—The defence minister tonight told the House of Commons last night that the strength of the Canadian army overseas on March 31 last was more than 190,000.

He said some 70,000 army personnel had been sent overseas in the last fiscal year. The strength of the army overseas on March 31, 1942, was more than 130,000.

The enlistment requirements for the year ending last March 31 were down from 90,000 to 100,000. At the time there had been 125,000 enlisted. Not all were for reinforcements for overseas units as a portion went into units for home defence.

In addition the National Resources Mobilization act call-up had brought in a net of about 60,000 men.

In March and April the enlistments had been down and May had not begun so well.

Col. Balchman of the Diaphe "reconnaissance in force" had been a vital part of the offensive on which the United Nations agreed. The lessons learned from it still were being studied and had been put to use.

The high command required information which could only be obtained by "fighting for it."

There was a heavy task which could be accomplished only by troops of a high standard.

Because of the overseas aggressive action of the Germans had strengthened their forces along the front and they were the fiercest.

Reports he had received praised the assistance given by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police and the Canadians participating in both the Atlantic and Pacific theatres.

"BEYOND PRAISE"

The conduct of Canadian troops had been "beyond praise," with a number of medals and decorations with the enemy indicated. There was no doubt that one man had fallen in his duty.

The defence minister made his statement with the house in committee discussing a resolution to approve a bill covering a $3,500,000 military appropriation.

Dealing with the army organization, he said that the Canadian army was organized for the formation of an auxiliary and supplementary units of the second corps and the first Canadian Army to help make up corps army and line of communication troops.

Most of those organized in Canada were sent overseas in 1942, but a few still awaited dispatch.

TWO MAIN DIVISIONS

There were two principal divisions in the second corps, the first consisting of the 2nd Army Tank Brigade—been the headquarters second corps and headquarters of the first corps and army troops which are auxiliary units supplementary to these formations.

In Canada and England, more than 170 and 180,000 respectively, were organized for the formation of an auxiliary and supplementary units of the second corps and the first Canadian Army to help make up corps army and line of communication troops.

Most of those organized in Canada were sent overseas in 1942, but a few still awaited dispatch.

THE MINISTER SAID

He urged members to pass the bill without further discussion. The "bill" seemed to be a very pleasant one and if he were a prospective recipient, unless his need was very great, he would be inclined to let parliament to keep it.

MUNITIONS PROGRAM

OTTAWA, May 14.—(CP)—Munitions Minister How told the House of Commons last night that Canadian munitions production program is being reviewed because of the requirements for certain equipment has been met and that the need for certain defensive weapons is not as great.

The minister's statement, made in reply to an inquiry by J. W. Newberry (C.F., York South) about a report that the cost of the $1,000,000 mutual aid bill.

OVERCOME UNEMPLOYMENT

Hon. R. B. Hanson (Prog. Can., York-Sunbury) said he wondered if the mutual aid program expenditures were designed in part to overcome unemployment conditions which might develop because of the return of munitions program.

Mr. Hanson suggested that western members who suggested that under the mutual aid program better prices might be made available to agricultural producers whose food output would be shipped abroad.

Finance Minister Flaherty said that it more money for food there would be less for munitions.

The House rejected an amendment to the bill, Mr. Green (Prog. Can., Vancouver) urging that Trade Minister MacKinnon be a member of the cabinet mutual aid board of five ministers which will distribute supplies.

The bill, Mr. Green said, past-war trade should be a consideration. Without hindered the flow of assistance to the United Nations needing it, trading opportunities might be opened to the Canadians.

The House also turned down an amendment by Mr. MacKinnon (Lib. Temiskaming) suggesting that Mr. Illey be reported to the mutual aid board by a parliamentary assistant as a "too busy" to serve him.

DIRECTED BY STRATEGY

Mr. Howe said it was possible to concentrate supplies of a single commodity as the offensive strategy of Britain and her allies directed.

It was believed that the program would be a member of the cabinet mutual aid board of five ministers which will distribute supplies.

C.C.F. is Asking For Compulsory Bargaining Plan

OTTAWA, May 14.—(CP)—The C.C.F. today asked the National War Labor Board to endorse an over-all compulsory bargaining plan providing compulsory collective bargaining, protecting the workers' right to organize and outlawing company unions.

A brief over-all recommendation to the board by two C.C.F. members of parliament, Clarence Gidycz, Cap Breton South and Angus MacInnis, Vancouver East, said the present machinery for administering labor legislation was totally inadequate.

POINTS IN BRIEF

The brief said there was "urgent need" for a legislative program which would:

1. Guarantee the right to organize and make it a punishable offense for employers to interfere with organization.

2. Provide "expeditious and uniform" method for determining which of two or more bona fide bargaining agencies had the support of a majority of the employees concerned.

3. Exclude company unions from any status under the law.

4. Make union recognition and collective bargaining compulsory.

5. Set up an appropriate body like the present War Labor Board for the peaceful settlement of labor-management disputes.

REVISION URGED

The brief also recommended revision of the present legislation to enable an upward adjustment of wages in adequate wages anywhere in Canada.

Amendments should also be made to establish an effective machinery for determining which of two or more bona fide bargaining agencies had the support of a majority of the employees concerned.

The C.C.F. also asked the National Manufacturers' Association brief, presented at an earlier stage of the war, to be a "rigid" and "inflexible" toward union organization.

Employers were also developing new and numerous devices in their determination to frustrate the growth of unionism, the C.C.F. continued.

LABOR REPRESENTATION

Adequate representation of workers in the present legislation and committees should be provided to represent workers in the determination of which of two or more bona fide bargaining agencies had the support of a majority of the employees concerned.

There had been failure to consult on matters which were of concern to it and this was true at the present time in the last of the resulting from changes in production program, the brief said.

War News Summary

FRIDAY, MAY 14

Aleutians: Japanese Imperial headquarters reported today that American troops had landed on Attu Island at the western tip of the island, 45 miles east of Cape Mon.

Bracken Here: Plans Confer With Officials

will return to Edmonton on Saturday.

Monday he will visit the University of Alberta, and on Monday will address a joint meeting of the Edmonton Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club. In the afternoon he will make a tour of Edmonton to see the war development here. He will visit also several of the R.C.A.F. depots in the city.

He said that he was making this tour of Canada to familiarize himself with conditions throughout the Dominion, and admit that it will be his first trip into the great areas of Northern Alberta and the North West Territories.

He was looking forward with the keenest interest to his trip over the Alaska Highway, which he described as one of the most interesting adventures in the Canadian-American war effort.

DECLINES COMMENT

Mr. Bracken, declining to comment on political matters, said this visit was purely a fact finding one, and added that in a later visit contemplated this fall, he would probably be more than willing to answer all political questions.

He said that he had a most interesting meeting with 120 representative farmers at Calgary on Thursday evening when party prices, wheat surplus problem, farm debt legislation and many other matters pertaining to the welfare of the farmers were discussed. It is understood that a similar meeting is planned for him here.

The Progressive Conservative chief, urged that all Canadians give their unsparing support to Canada's Fourth Victory Loan.

Better Do It Now

The city council had a skirmish with the coal question on Monday and will debate it further at next meeting. Council, it is proposed, should arrange at the power house or elsewhere storage space where dealers can pile up supplies against the demand next fall and winter.

Assuming that the dealers have not sufficient storage room and find this difficult to obtain under wartime conditions, the suggestion is reasonable. The city would be undertaking only what it has done in the past. The expense should not be great, and this could be recovered by charging a fair rental for the accommodation.

Whatever comes of this, the observant householder will see in the proposal another warning that next winter's coal supply is something he may need. The city would be undertaking only what it has done in the past. The expense should not be great, and this could be recovered by charging a fair rental for the accommodation.

It may seem strange to a resident of Edmonton to order November's coal in May, but better that than have an empty bin when cold weather arrives. Alberta mines during the last year produced more coal than ever before—still there was a scarcity in the winter months. For the reason that the demand was greater than ever before. If weather conditions are similar the demand will grow rather than down next winter. The conclusion is obvious.

Assets Obvious Liabilities

Canada is doing its own war-financing. It has borrowed no money abroad. It has neither received nor asked for anything on lease-and-lend account. On the other hand, the Dominion last year paid a billion dollars' worth of supplies outright. This year it is offering an equal amount of supplies on a revised payment or promise to pay. So far from being a leaser on its associates in the war effort, Canada is a creditor to the economic strength of the United Nations. If we do not get paid for the tools we are supplying to our allies' forces, the effective use of those tools will be accepted as discharging the debt.

The money that the Government of Canada is borrowing is from the people of Canada. The debt is entirely internal. The country is therefore no poorer than before the borrowing. The amount that the Government owes it owes to its own taxpayers, and the amount of its indebtedness is balanced by the amount of the payments which will be due to the Government. Canada can never go "broke" by borrowing from its own taxpayers and spending among them. More the Government owes to the people, the more it has with which to repay the obligations.

If anyone is still foolish enough to imagine that the Victorians in Canada could become unpayable, he should sit down and try to figure out how such a thing could come about. He will find that it simply couldn't happen.

Subs and the Burma Road

The make-up of the conference at Washington is sufficient indication that the whole field of the global war is to be surveyed. While the clearance of the Axis from North Africa is being completed, the judgment of plans for action in Europe, the presence of United States and British commanders in the Burma-China area can mean that attention is being given to the situation there.

Large scale action in Europe can only be undertaken after the eastern shore of the Atlantic is secured and the Atlantic sea routes made dependable as supply lines from this continent. China can only be supported adequately and Japan balked if the Burma road is got under control or some substitute supply route opened. The conference thus faces problems ranging geographically from the eastern shore of America eastward around the globe to the Aleutian Islands.

In general terms the basic question confronting the Allies now is not one of production but transportation. The factories in the United States, Canada, Britain and Russia are direct and indirect, but there are serious difficulties to be cleared away before these can be delivered where they are and will be needed on time and in amounts that will be required. The Burma road is got under control or some substitute supply route opened. The conference thus faces problems ranging geographically from the eastern shore of America eastward around the globe to the Aleutian Islands.

Ten Pro-Nazis
The isolationists in parliament took occasion to further clarify their peculiar position during the debate on the mutual aid bill. This bill will empower the Government to ship war supplies to friendly countries even if these cannot pay for them, to the limit of one billion dollars. Under the leadership of J. A. A. Cardin, former minister of transport, Mr. J. S. Roy, member for Gaspé, and Mr.

Liguori Lacombe, member for Laval-20 Mountains, ten of the members supported amendments which would have killed the bill outright. They argued that the constitutionality, and all fought the amendment of the mobilization law under which men called for military training can be sent out of Canada if that becomes necessary.

In voting against the aid bill these members said in effect that they would let the people in Britain go hungry if they cannot pay for food, would let the Chinese be crushed if they cannot pay for weapons, would let the Greeks starve if they cannot pay for the wheat we are shipping to them, would dole out to the Russians only so much plane and tanks and guns as they want.

Their action implied more than this. It must be plain to anyone that if our Allies are provided with food and arms and thus enabled to fight, fewer Canadians will have to cross the oceans to do the fighting in Europe and the East. But the isolationists would neither feed nor arm Allied troops nor send Canadian troops to fight in their stead.

If that is not a pro-Nazi attitude the difference is not important. The Axis can only be beaten by armed forces. Our isolationists would neither send Canadian forces to do the job nor feed and equip others to do it. What more could Hitler or Mussolini or Tojo ask of Canada than that it should adopt that policy of aloofness?

Rumors are afloat that Italy is making diplomatic inquiries about the chance to make peace with the Allies. Hitler may have heard of them, for he has sent Goering and Himmler to stamp out "Communism" in Italy.

General Giovanni Messe is rather a particular man, a stickler for preference even in the case of a gun. Summoned to surrender, he was agreeable but insisted that the surrender must be to General Montgomery's 8th Army. On the principle, no doubt, that the victor should be the victor's ally. He would like to see the 8th Army go to the army that has been longest in the field.

Many Germans Present
But Not Offensive to Allied Nations

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
STOCKHOLM.—Although Sweden is completely walled around by German and Nazi territory, the visitor here does not have a sense of being in a Nazi-dominated area.

I have never felt myself among more sincere friends in my life than I have here in Sweden.

It makes a romantic picture to think of Nazis clanking around the streets of Stockholm, but the fact is I haven't seen a single one since I arrived.

The Nazis keep their heads down. I have found some papers in the street, but they were not the kind that was done by a maid or by secret agents I don't know, but they were not the kind that was done by a maid or by secret agents I don't know, but they were not the kind that was done by a maid or by secret agents I don't know.

Our Future Queen; A Portrait

By WILSON HARRIS in the LONDON SPECTATOR

Princess Elizabeth is 17, which means that she is reaching to be a child. Her life has so far, most rightly, been spent in her home rather than in the public eye.

Her future subject is a relatively little of her, apart from the admiration and respect which she has won, to the children of the Empire, at home and overseas, when she was only 14. Now the Princess stands on the threshold of public life, they may feel that she is being prepared to know something of how she is being prepared for the high office of Queen.

The Queen has shown a gracious readiness to make available such information as is relevant for that purpose.

It is more than a century, though not much more, since a girl of 17 stood first in succession to the throne of Great Britain.

Between the heir-presumptive of that day and the heir-presumptive of this is not only inevitable but instructive.

What part Princess Victoria's native qualities, and what part the training she received, played respectively in her life, are the great responsibilities she so greatly estimates. What is certain is that with any arguable exception she was the greatest Queen this country

Our Future Queen; A Portrait

By WILSON HARRIS in the LONDON SPECTATOR

Princess Elizabeth is 17, which means that she is reaching to be a child. Her life has so far, most rightly, been spent in her home rather than in the public eye.

Her future subject is a relatively little of her, apart from the admiration and respect which she has won, to the children of the Empire, at home and overseas, when she was only 14. Now the Princess stands on the threshold of public life, they may feel that she is being prepared to know something of how she is being prepared for the high office of Queen.

The Queen has shown a gracious readiness to make available such information as is relevant for that purpose.

It is more than a century, though not much more, since a girl of 17 stood first in succession to the throne of Great Britain.

Between the heir-presumptive of that day and the heir-presumptive of this is not only inevitable but instructive.

What part Princess Victoria's native qualities, and what part the training she received, played respectively in her life, are the great responsibilities she so greatly estimates. What is certain is that with any arguable exception she was the greatest Queen this country

On Injured List Though

Frisch Says Geary Still Pirates' Regular Shortstop

BROOKLYN, May 14.—(AP)—Pittsburgh Pirates are trying to roll up hill in the National League with one cylinder missing. The phantom piston is Eugene Francis (Huck) Geary.

The Pirates gave up two good players, Stu Martin and Arne Anderson, to get Geary out of the American Association in the middle of last summer and since then he has played 18 games—nine at intervals last autumn and six this spring. But Frisch insists that Geary still is his regular shortstop.

"Geary is a strange case," Frisch said, "but he has shown me enough to know that he is a good player and if we can ever get him in the lineup at short regularly I think our infield will be fixed."

Frisch admitted ruefully that he had no idea when Geary would be able to play.

The 26-year-old infielder was spiked by Eddie Sisk of the Cubs in the opening game of the season at Chicago and has been limping around ever since.

Geary's absence has made it necessary for Frankie Glines to handle the shortstop in spite of the fact that he, too, is injured. It was caused Frisch to use catcher Al Lopez at third base one day in order to move Bob Elliott to short and relieve Glines.

June 14, and there's no telling when they'll decide.

Long range view.
From this distance, even 500 miles back like a hawk of a distance and a travel for a football game, no matter how much mileage they save.

Being safe from hawks, we're respectfully suggest they all look into some real backyard schedules, even if U.S.C. has to play the San Diego Bombers and California the St. Mary's pre-flight school every Saturday.

Ontario Jockey Suspended in '37 Granted License

TORONTO, May 14.—(CP)—

Granting of a probationary license to Jockey Frank Mann and the re-instatement on Ontario tracks of James Fair's Canadian-bred handi-cap racer McMark were the highlights of a lengthy meeting of the Incorporated Canadian Racing Association Thursday.

Mann was "set down" in 1937 when he and other riders were linked in an investigation of an alleged "jockey ring" in which a number of jockeys, including Mann, were implicated. In 1940 he received permission to apply for a license at the tracks outside jurisdiction of the I.C.R.A. and this was the third year he had applied for an Ontario license. All other involved in the 1937 investigation previously had been reinstated.

The horse McMark had been ruled off the track during last summer's meeting at Fort Erie after the stewards had questioned Fair about the horse's previous performance at Hamilton and Duferin.

A total of 31 jockeys were granted licenses yesterday while a license was refused in Jockey T. Barker.

DARK JUNGLES

By JOHN C. FLEMING AND LOIS EBY

CHAPTER XXVII

Barry threw open the door and swept the small beam of his flashlight around the dark room. Suddenly it rested on the cinder in the corner. He saw the slender form of Allison sleeping there. Her short hair was tousled and her face looked startledly white. He crossed the room quietly and laying a hand on her shoulder, shook her gently. She sat up and blinked and let out a small cry.

"It's all right," Barry said in a low tone. "It's me, Barry. Allison rubbed her eyes like a frightened child trying to pull herself back to reality.

"Barry," she said thickly, "But how you ever find this place?"

"Tony got away from the guards and came to the camp for me. What happened?"

"We had just come out of the jungle—it was almost dawn. Allison said breathlessly. Four men suddenly appeared from nowhere. They brandished our heads, tied our hands and brought us here."

"It must have been the Quiche chief who is responsible for this," Barry said grimly.

Allison suddenly caught hold of Barry's sleeve. "Wait a minute. He said in a hushed voice. "Where is Tony now?"

"Outside tying up the guards. Why?"

"Listen! From the next room came the sound of footsteps as they paced back and forth over the plank flooring."

"Do you hear that?" Allison said.

"Yes."

"I've never heard it ever since I've been here but I thought it was Tony being held in that next room."

"Then there's someone else being held prisoner here?" Barry said slowly.

"He stepped to the door that opened."

merical purpose. They wouldn't be working all night unless they were being driven to it by some outside force."

"That sounds logical," Barry admitted.

"Listen!" Hall said suddenly.

Above the sound of the wind as it swept through the pines they could hear the distant rumble of heavy cart wheels as they bounced over the rock strewn slopes.

"Let's see what we can find," Hall whispered.

Tony led the way on foot while Allison rode behind him on his mule. Barry and Hall each led a pack mule. The night was lanky black and the going was rough. Tony threaded his way slowly and cautiously, and the rest followed. The distant rumble grew slowly more distinct. The sky to the east was awash with gray light when the procession suddenly stopped. Tony cried out, "Here is their path!"

It was a winding trail of deep ruts that led up from the sea. Barry flashed on his light and stooped. He came up with something in his hand and said excitedly.

"Hall, you're right, look at this one that has spilled from the cart. It's red as the fire of hell!"

Hall took a bit of it in the palm of his hand and put the light directly upon it. "That's cinabar, all right," he said.

Blackness had begun to melt from the sky as the little group moved wearily up the trail. A hill loomed ahead, topped through the murkiness. Tony scrambled up the slope of it with the stealth of an animal. When he reached the top he called in a hushed, excited voice.

"Allison, come up here, pointing with his hand. 'It's the mine!'"

Allison walked while Barry and Hall fought their way up the sharp bank. When the scene unfolded before them they could only see a dozen or more Indians digging out the precious ore.

Tony was pointing again and saying excitedly:

"They're all Quiches but two!"

"The two mountaineers from the new chicle grove," Allison gasped.

Barry sucked in his breath. His gaze had swept past the mountaineers to the huge figure emerging from the mine.

"All Quiches but three," he said grimly.

For the huge figure was plainly Jose.

Crest Ceremony Colorful Event At No. 4 I.T.S.

Air Vice-Marshal Howman later presided at presentation of the Efficiency pennant at a ceremony at No. 3 "M" depot.

In his reply Wing Commander Macpherson thanked the air vice-marshal for his courtesy in coming to Edmonton to make the presentation. He said it was to be regretted that Group Capt. J. A. Hutchinson, O.B.E., who first made application for the crest some months ago, was not present to receive it. Mrs. Hutchinson was at the ceremony, however, he observed.

Group Captain Hutchinson, former commanding officer at No. 4 I.T.S., recently arrived overseas, where he has assumed new duties.

Later in the parade Air Vice-Marshal Howman presented to his reply Wing Commander Macpherson the crest of the I.T.S. He said it was to be regretted that Group Capt. J. A. Hutchinson, O.B.E., who first made application for the crest some months ago, was not present to receive it. Mrs. Hutchinson was at the ceremony, however, he observed.

MESSAGE FOR AXIS

This teamwork will later take the form of "blockbuster" messages for Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito, the air vice-marshal concluded.

The efficiency pennant is presented quarterly to the air station with the best record of efficiency in all departments operating under the Combined Air Training Plan as provided by the National Minister for Air, Hon. C. G. Power.

It is the second time that No. 3 "M" depot has won the crest. Group Captain Smith thanked the air vice-marshal for making the presentation and for his praise of the depot.

Navy Supply Pier Damaged by Fire At San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, May 14. — (AP)—A navy supply pier was damaged, at least 20 persons were injured, none seriously, and more than 100 overcome by smoke in a San Francisco waterfront fire yesterday. All naval supplies, including munitions stored on the pier were saved. Reports said it appeared the fire started when oil on the pier had been ignited in some way, possibly from a passing barge.

Two Detroit Men Sentenced to Hang For Case Slaying WINDSOR, Ont., May 14. — (AP)—Two Detroit men accused of the murder of a Windsor restaurant keeper in an attempted hold-up Oct. 2, 1942, last night were found guilty and sentenced to hang Aug. 24. They were Stefan Ogrodowski, 24, and Bruno Kisilewski, 21.

The charges followed the fatal shooting of Joseph Berg. Mr. Justice C. F. McFarland in his charge to the jury declared he doubted the Detroit men could maintain the accused to get evidence as the two men had claimed.
